

TAFT'S VIEWS AS TO INJUNCTIONS

ARE GIVEN IN A LETTER TO AN OHIO LABOR LEADER.

THE RIGHTS OF STRIKERS

Should be Protected by a Law Specifying the Exact Language to be Used by Judges in Issuing Restraining Orders.

Martins Ferry, O., Jan. 10.—The views of William H. Taft, secretary of war, in regard to the use and abuse of injunctions are stated in a letter in reply to questions propounded by Jewell Lewis, secretary of the Ohio Federation of Labor, given out here Thursday. Secretary Taft professes his statement with a declaration that he believes "it to be highly beneficial and entirely lawful for laborers to unite in their common interests." Proceeding directly to the answer of the questions propounded, he says:

"First—You ask me what I would think of the enactment of a law defining the cases in which a temporary restraining order may issue and defining in specific terms the language in which such order may be framed. I see no objection to the enactment of a statute which shall define the rights of laborers in their controversies with their former employers. As this statute would fix the full limits of their action, it would necessarily furnish a definite rule for determining the cases in which injunctions might issue, as well as their character and scope."

"Second—You ask me what I think of a provision that no injunction shall issue except after notice to the defendant and a hearing had. This was the rule under the federal statutes for many years, but it was subsequently abolished. In the class of cases to which you refer I do not see any objection to the re-enactment of that federal statute. Indeed, I have said in public speeches that the power to issue injunctions has given rise to injustice to laborers engaged in a peaceable strike."

"In answer to your third question, it would seem that it is unnecessary to impose any limitation as to the time for a final hearing. If, before an injunction can issue at all, notice and hearing must be given. In such case, I should think it proper that the statute should require the court issuing an injunction to give the person against whom the injunction is issued an opportunity to have a hearing thereon within three or four days."

CARTER CANNOT ENJOY HIS LOOT

GOVERNMENT WINS SUIT TO RETAIN $400,000 IN BONDS.

STORED IN VARIOUS BANKS.

Judge Kohlsaat, in the Federal Court at Chicago, Renders the Final Decision in a Celebrated Case.

Chicago, Jan. 10.—Judge Kohlsaat, in the United States circuit court, rendered a decision Thursday in favor of the government in the suit against Capt. Oberlin M. Carter, formerly United States army engineer, charged with having defrauded the federal government to the extent of $700,000 through conspiracy with Contractors Greene and Gaynor.

The court ruled that Carter was not entitled to the $400,000 in railroad bonds and other securities traced by the government to safety deposit vaults and banks in various parts of the country. Under the decision the government will retain these securities and the famous case, which resulted in the conviction of Carter and of Greene and Gaynor and the imposing of penitentiary sentences, is brought to a close.

Funds of Capt. Carter which the government claims were proceeds of Carter's collusion with Greene and Gaynor, are tied up by suits pending in the federal courts of New York, New Jersey, West Virginia, Georgia and Illinois. By agreement all these suits were consolidated and tried before Judge Kohlsaat in the United States circuit court in Chicago about a year ago. It is the claim of Carter that the funds in question were given him by his father-in-law, the late Robert F. Woodcock, of New York.

Woodcock was charged by the government with having made investments of funds sent to him by Carter, which funds, it was alleged, were part of the funds diverted by Carter and Greene and Gaynor.

The case grew out of the construction of river and harbor improvements on the coast of Georgia. The government prosecutors contended that the army officer and the contractors defrauded the government in the sum of $2,225,000, and that one-third of this amount, or about $750,000, went to Carter. After several years' work $400,000 invested by Carter in various states was traced and seized.

The hearing before Judge Kohlsaat extended over several weeks and scores of witnesses were examined.

Richard Snell, who is president of the DeWitt county national bank, alleges that the terms of his father's will were the result of "an evil and wrongful influence" exerted over his father by Maybelle Snell.

Col. Snell made his fortune building railroads, including 800 miles of the Illinois Central railroad. During the civil war he commanded a regiment of Illinois volunteers. He died over a year ago, aged 90 years.

For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven catarrh to be a constitutional disease and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. NEW NAVAL DIVISION

TORPEDO SECTION PLANNED TO BE UNDER ONE COMMAND.

Commander Charles C. Marsh Has Been Designated as Chief and Gets Quarters in the Bureau of Navigation.

Washington.—As a recognized necessity, resulting from the rapid growth of the American navy which is taking rank as second in tonnage among the navies of the world, Secretary Metcalf and Rear-Admiral Brownson, chief of the bureau of navigation, have decided upon the organization of a special submarine and torpedo division of the navy, to be under the direct supervision of one head.

For this duty Commander Charles C. Marsh has been designated, and he is being provided with quarters in the bureau of navigation to take up the work.

In establishing the submarine division the United States navy is following in the steps of the British navy, which some time ago placed all its submarines and torpedo boats under a distinct head, separate from the remainder of the vessels.

In his new duty Commander Marsh will work immediately under the direction of the bureau of navigation, except when the vessels of his division are assigned to the Atlantic fleet, when they would come under the direct command of Rear-Admiral Evans.

As Admiral Evans will leave for the Pacific shortly, the torpedo division will be entirely independent of any other floating command. Commander Marsh's duties will be mostly on shore, both at the navy department and at the sea headquarters of the different flotillas at Newport, R. I.

The desired operations of the new divisions will not be in complete working order for some time, however, owing to the shortage of officers for command of the vessels. By next February, however, when the present senior class of the naval academy will be graduated, the department will be able to have a full quota of ensigns and junior lieutenants for flotilla commands.

The first submarine flotilla, composed of the Porpoise, Shark and Plunger, with the Nina as tender, has just been placed in commission at Newport, with Lieut. Charles P. Nelson in command. The vessels having all been overhauled and repaired.

The second flotilla also has been placed in commission at Newport, under command of Lieut. Charles E. Courtney. This flotilla is composed of the Viper and Cuttlefish, with the Hist as tender. These two submarines have been completed but a short time, and with the next few weeks they will be joined by the Octopus and Taramula, which are being completed at the yards of the Fore River Shipbuilding company at Quincy, Mass.

Under this division will be placed the reserve torpedo boat flotilla at Norfolk, in command of Lieut. C. Richardson. The second and third torpedo flotillas are in the Atlantic fleet at present, but on the departure of the battleships and the second flotilla for the Pacific coast the third flotilla will be detached, to remain at Annapolis, under the command of Lieut. W. G. Mitchell, and under the special torpedo division.

For some time yet, however, the duties of Commander Marsh will pertain principally to working out torpedo and submarine problems, rather than the floating organization of the different flotillas.

GETS MILLION TO BUY TITLE.

Mrs. R. H. Townsend Now Able to Induce Duke to Wed Daughter.

Erle, Pa.—By a decision of Judge Walling, from which an appeal probably will not be taken, Mrs. Richard H. Townsend of Washington, New York and Newport will have $1,000,000 available immediately from the fortune left to her and her sister, Mrs. Charles H. Strong of Erle, by their father, the late Congressman William L. Scott.

The court holds that the $2,000,000 realized from the sale of the Scott Coal company should be classed as profits, and not as part of the principal of the estate which the thrifty millionaire tied up so that his daughters might use only the income.

It is reported from Washington that the duke of Alba, one of the proudest grandees of Spain, had decided he could not marry Miss Townsend because he needed an income of at least $200,000 a year. It was reported there only a short time ago that the duke had sent his financial agent to audit the family accounts and that he had discovered that Mrs. Townsend's income did not exceed $250,000 a year, and she could not be expected to give four-fifths of it to her daughter. The additional allowance of a million may enable Mrs. Townsend to satisfy the duke of 11 distinguished titles.

The Russian Girdle.

A note of novelty is struck in the "Russian" girdle, which is fashioned of the velvet straight across the front and back and curved under the arms. This curve, of course, is not abrupt, and yet it is very nearly so, but the straight line across front and back is nevertheless preserved. Sometimes the fronts and the backs are slashed through the center and laced with a silk cord or a bit of the silk trail.
